Hermann Zapf

Zappino was designed by Hermann Zapf and founded by Linotype. It was released in 1998. Hermann was approached by David Siegel to make a typeface with a large number of glyph variations.

Zappino was concerned at first then decided to do it. He looked through his sketch books and found something he had worked on back in 1948 but couldn't produce it then because he had to etch it into metal and it was too delicate.

Zappino includes over 1400 glyphs.
